

Third

I am third.

We all must line up, I have heard.

First and foremost is God.

Second, everyone else who has this earth trod

And lastly, for third, I get the nod!

I am third!

No one is fourth!

Consider the sense of this.

It takes compassion to the fore,

placing only God before all of His creation, and sets ego last.

Imagine how this world might look if we all lived that truth.

The ills of this world as we know it are driven entirely by the ego of man.

We are driven to acquire as much as we can during our lives, be it education, skills, glories, influence, honours and especially worldly goods and possessions. We are forever driven to win, frequently at all costs, easily distracted from doing the right thing if the wrong thing might result in the laurels we think we must have.
